ANNA MOLINARI “KNIGHT OF LABOUR”

In Rome, on 17th 2010, the designer Anna Molinari was bestowed the prestigious title of “Cavaliere del Lavoro”.

During the ceremony for this achievement award at the Palazzo del Quirinale, the Italian president, Giorgio Napolitano, conferred this important honour on the 25 people selected 2 June last.

Anna Molinari received the honorary title for having contributed, with her style and entrepreneurial work, to promoting Italian production worldwide, with important social and employment spin-offs.

“I have pursued with determination, commitment and sacrifices all the goals which I have set myself, privileged to be able to do the job which excites me the most and through which I can express my creativity in full”, declared Anna Molinari. “I’m very happy and proud of this latest important honour which I am to receive from President Napolitano, confirmation of my constant dedication to work and the crowning of the dream of a lifetime, following the example of my father, Guido Molinari, who in 1958 received the same award”.
